Within our lifetimes, we’ve marveled as humanity have managed to look at ever smaller and smaller things and further and further into the dark night sky, back in time, on nature and creations of man. But maybe the most mysterious of all is neither the small nor the large: it’s us, up close, our thoughts, silence and passions.

We are in constant search of sanctuary spaces for thinking and contemplation, keeping the outside world away. Where we can be on our own, very serene. Reaching and finding our best dreams.

Troldtekt RAW brings the benefits of the base material of the panels Troldtekt to the hands of the builder and user, allowing it to be he who defines the shape and final application of the product. This proposal aims to return to essentials, reinterpreting the material before it has a specific shape or use.

...a world to be listened, a world of possibilities.
